Captain First to Leave Ship. The Espana Nueva, of Madrid yester-day morning published a di-patch from Barcelona containing a startling statement to account for the wreck of the

In this communication it is asserted that the Italian steamer was engaged in the clandestine embarkation of Spanish emigrants along the cost, and that large sums of money were paid for this work. This is said to explain why the vessel followed a course never taken by ships of equal draft.

Continuing, the Espasa Noeva says the conduct of the captain and crew of the Sirio when the catastrophe occurred left much to be desired, and justifies belief in the reports that illicit traffic was lief in the reports that illicit traffic was going on.

According to some of the survivors the captain came from his cabin immediately after the first shock, heritated whether to go to the bow or stern or mount the bridge, and then turned and jumped into a lifeboot, crying, "Everyone for himself!" Thercupon, they say, began a terrible scene of confusion among the passengers, who engaged in a fierce struggle for possession of the boots and life bits. The crew, with knives between their teeth, and chieres, with revolvers in their hands, saved themselves, it is further asserted. selves, it is further asserted.
